EDITOR'S LETTER

During the past month we have been gathering a list of the books on Cuban local history, genealogy and biographies that are scattered throughout the major libraries in this country. To accomplish this we have contacted a number of major libraries and asked them to send us a listing of the books in those categories.

The response has been very good. Libraries like the New York Public Library, Los Angeles Public Library and Chicago Public Library have already sent us their listing, and we hope to get more answers in the near future.

Our goal in doing so is, not only to know the location of these books, but to eventually copy them to a CD format so we can have easy access to their information for the purpose of research, and also to preserve these books in a format that is almost indestructible.

Most of the books on Cuban subjects are getting very old and are not in print any more. It is important to search them out and preserve these sources of information that may otherwise be lost in a very short time.

We welcome the input of the members on this project. We would like to know of books that have information useful to genealogists, not only of vital data, but on local history, which adds so much to a genealogy, turning it into family history, and the basic history of a country as well.

If you know of any books in your local libraries that may be of interest, please write to us and let us know the title, author, printer and year of publication, together with the name and address of the library in which you found it.

We, at CGS, are excited about this project and know that it will be an important contribution to the preservation of the Cuban culture.

An Important New Resource: The David Masnata Collection

by Esperanza B. de Varona, Assistant Head
Archives & Special Collections Department
Otto G. Richter Library of the University of Miami

The Otto G. Richter Library of the University of Miami has recently received an outstanding collection of resources on Hispanic genealogy and heraldry. The 3,000-volume collection was donated by Haydee Masnata, the widow of David Masnata y de Quesada, distinguished Cuban-born lawyer, historian, and genealogist, at the suggestion of his close friend Dr. Carlos Ripoll, Cuban-born scholar and professor at Queens College, New York.

When historian/genealogist David Masnata fled from Cuba in 1961 and went into exile after the Castro Revolution, he left behind his entire collection of Cuban books and almost all of his archives on Cuban and Spanish history, genealogy and heraldry. While in exile, however, he compiled a new collection of 3,000 books and thousands of records and documents of his investigations in Spanish and Cuban genealogy. This collection, remarkable for its richness in rare material and its strength in publications about Cuban and Spanish history, genealogy and heraldry, is now available to researchers at the Otto G. Richter Library of the University of Miami in Coral Gables, Florida.

David Masnata, Marquis of Santa Ana and Santa María, was born in Havana in 1926 and died in New York in 1988. He practiced law in Cuba, Spain, and the United States. Masnata was a grandson of Gonzalo de Quesada, and associate of the Cuban revolutionary hero José Martí, and a great-grandson of Dr. Ramón L. Miranda, the José Martí family physician.

Masnata was founder and first secretary of the Instituto Cubano de Genealogía Heráldica (Cuban Institute of Genealogy and Heraldry) 1950-1961; member of the Sociedad Cubana de Estudios Históricos e Internacionales (Cuban Society of Historical and International Studies) 1956-1961; honorary member of the Academia Mexicana de Genealogía y Heráldica (Mexican Academy of Genealogy and Heraldry) 1950-1989. He was also an active member of the Sociedad Dominicana de Geografía (Dominican Society of Geography) 1971-1989; Instituto Genealógico Brasileiro (Brazilian Institute of Genealogy) 1970-1989; Instituto Peruano de Investigaciones Genealógicas (Peruvian Institute of Genealogical Investigations) 1972-1989; Asociación Ibero-Americana de Heráldica y Genealogía (Ibero-American Association of Heraldry and Genealogy) 1981-1989; Asociación Española de Estudios Genealógicos y Heráldicos (Spanish Association of Genealogical and Heraldic Studies) 1985-1989; Centro de Estudios Genealógicos de Salta, Argentina (Center for Genealogical Studies of Salta, Argentina) 1986-1989; and member of the American Society of Heraldry, 1953-1989. He received the "Prix de Liechtenstein, 1985" awarded by H.R.H. Franz Josef II, Reigning Prince of Liechtenstein, for his work La Casa Real de la Cerda (The Royal House of La Cerda).

Printed Sources in The Masnata Collection

The Masnata Collection of books contains important works, many of which are rare first editions. For example, the Indices Rerum ab Aragoniae Recibus (1578); Historia de los Reyes de Castilla y de Leon, by Fray Prudencio de Sandoval (1634), Indice de las Glorias de la Casa Farnese, o Resumen de las Heroicas Acciones de sus Príncipes, que Consagra a la Augusta Reyna de las Españas Doña Isabel Farnese by Luis de Salazar y Castro (1716); Memorias de las Reynas Católicas, by Fray Enrique Flóres (1761) 2 vols.; L'Art de Verifier des Dates, Des Faits Historiques, des Inscriptions, des Chroniques... by different Religious organizations (1819) 2 vol.; Chronique des Ducs de Brabant, by Edmond de Dynter (1815-1860) 4 vols.; Almanach de Gotha (1829-1914) 31 vols.

In the book collection we also find the specialized books on Cuban genealogy, for example, Historia de Familias Cubanas, by Francisco Javier de Santa Cruz y Mallén, Count of Jaruco and of Santa Cruz de Mompox, (1940-1986) 9 vols.; Genealogías Habaneras (1979-1980) 2 vols. and Dignidades Nobiliarias en Cuba by Rafael Nieto Cortadellas (1954); Nobiliario Cubano by Count de Vallellano (1928), etc. Within the group of Cuban history books there are seven volumes of Documentos para la Historia de Cuba (1965); Gulas de Forasteros de la Siempre Fiel Isla de Cuba (1860,1869); the biography of the Cuban patriot Carlos Manuel de Céspedes written by his son and published in Paris in 1895; Mi Primera Ofrenda (1892) by Gonzalo de Quesada (grandfather of David Masnata), etc.

The Masnata Papers

The Masnata personal papers are comprised of documents, correspondence, photographs, personal memoirs, etc. These papers are divided into five series. The first series contains documents, manuscripts, and memorabilia of Masnata's ancestors from the nineteenth century through the early twentieth century. In this group we find the correspondence, manuscript documents, general orders, etc. of Gonzalo de Quesada and of Dr. Ramón L. Miranda, grandfather and great-grandfather, respectively, of David Masnata. Included in these records are letters to and from Gonzalo de Quesada while serving as Cuban ambassador in Washington, DC, at the beginning of the Cuban Republic, Quesada's holographic will, his obituary, etc. and the personal correspondence of Dr. Ramón L. Miranda mainly with members of his family.

The second series comprises the genealogy of Masnata's family which includes the twelve-generation pedigree chart and a photo-genealogical chart. In this group we find typescripts, manuscripts, photocopies with information of hundreds of Cuban last names, such as Céspedes, Zayas, Agramontes, Arteaga, etc. Included here are documents and other information related to the early Cuban studies of fish and the foundation of the first public aquarium in the Caribbean, opened in Havana in 1929 by the grandfather and other relatives of David Masnata. In 1937, the Masnata family established in Miami, in the section of the city today known as "Little Havana," an aquarium where they sold tropical species. The third series is comprised of documents on genealogy of Spain related to other European countries. It contains manuscripts and photocopies of research done by Masnata related to the Ollendorf dynasty of Germany.

The fourth series contains documents, manuscripts and some periodicals related to José Martí, the Cuban patriot, poet, essayist, journalist, a great figure of Spanish-American literature in the nineteenth century and Apostle of the Cuban War for Independence against Spain (1885-1899). Here we find the unpublished holographic poem "Envoi" written by Martí to Angelina Miranda (grandmother of Masnata) and a holographic "Pensamientos de José Martí" written by Ramón L. Miranda, the family doctor of José Martí and great grandfather of David Masnata.

The fifth series includes manuscripts of two unpublished books by David Masnata: "Los Fundadores de la Republica de Cuba" (The Founders of the Cuban Republic) and "Escalafón de la Guerra del '68" (hierarchy of the War of '68). In the manuscripts, researchers and historians will find important data related to the civil and military history of the first Cuban War for Independence of 1868, also known as "Guerra de los Diez Años" (The Ten-Year War). Included in this series is a copy of the baptismal certificate of Doña Leonor Pérez de Martí, mother of José Martí. This important document, which many researchers before Masnata had unsuccessfully tried to find, proves that Doña Leonor Pérez de Martí was born on the 17th of December, 1828, and not on the 18th of December as had been previously documented.

By building this excellent collection David Masnata enhanced available sources on genealogy and heraldry for those researchers interested in the roots of Spanish and other European names. His archives are an excellent primary source for genealogists, and especially for Cubans and Floridians tracing their family names and histories.

Ramón Manuel Zambrana was born on July 17, 1817 and died on March 18, 1866; he was a teacher, an indisputable authority in medical science and physic-chemistry, in law and literature. He was a poet, journalist and a man of rare humility and almost evangetic charity.

He started school at the age of five and showed a great inclination to studying and reflecting in solitude, something rare in young men.

While attending the University of Habana, he distinguished himself promptly and obtained many honors. On March 15, 1839 he solicited the exam to complete his schooling, so he could obtain the degree of Medical Doctor. After taking this exam, he obtained his degree on May 15, 1843. Later on January 28, 1847 he obtained his Doctorate in Medicine, while he was having great success in his private practice, and had made a name for himself among colleagues and strangers alike.

The practice of medicine in his private office was never enough to satisfy Zambrana's appetite for knowledge, and he also engaged his time and energy in giving lectures and doing scientific investigations. He was often seen at literary discussions, the theater and listening to poems of others when he was not writing his own. He wrote for the magazines El Artista, El Aguinaldo Habanero, Revista de La Habana, Cuba Literaria, and Repertorio Medico-Habanero, which was directed by his great friend and companion Nicolás Gutiérrez.

In 1858 there was a vacancy for a professorship of Legal Medicine in the University of Habana, and his friend encouraged him to apply for this position. At this time he had received a volume of poems from the poet Luisa Pérez y Montes de Oca. Reading this volume of delicate and sentimental poems caused him to feel emotions that were not to be felt in the study of difficult and grave scientific problems that took most of his time.

This fascination for the poetic literature gave him a change of routine and interest that was a way of resting from the exhausting work of long hours of medicine practice.

Doctor Zambrana obtained the post of professor at the University of Habana on May 19, 1858. During this time he continued his correspondence with Luisa Pérez Montes de Oca, and after visiting her in Santiago de Cuba, he married her, becoming a complementary couple. She wrote poems, he practiced medicine.

He helped establish the Academia de Ciencias Médicas, Físicas y Naturales, an institution in which he was First Secretary; he worked in the Sociedad Económica, the Junta de Fomento, in the Liceo Artístico and the Seminario Conciliar, giving lectures and conferences, writing books like Mis Creencias, Tratado de Historia Natural, La Bóveda Celeste, Soliloquios, etc., all of varied topics.

During the years of married life the Zambranas had many children, which made him look for ways to increase his income by giving lectures in Chemistry, Clinical Medicine, Pathology, Public Hygiene, Toxicology and The History of Medicine.

Doctor Ramón Zambrana distinguished himself as a humanitarian with wisdom of high caliber and profound humane mercy, and tireless capacity for doing good to his fellow beings. But he never had any inclinations to do any political activity, maybe because he did not consider himself with aptitudes of a leader or government personality. Or maybe because his way of doing good to humanity was through his profession as a doctor of medicine. That is why it is not surprising to know that he came to the end of his life with almost no accumulated wealth, despite his considerable income while being active in his profession.

Doctor Zambrana not only gave generously of his income for the benefit of the people around him, but also his health was given away. He was diagnosed to have tuberculosis, which kept getting worse as he worried about the family he was leaving behind without the security of an established wealth.

He died on March 18, 1866. Over his death bed were his children and wife Luisa Pérez de Zambrana.

LUISA PEREZ DE ZAMBRANA

Luisa Pérez y Montes de Oca was born on August 25, 1835, in a small ranch called "Melgarejo" near the town El Cobre, in Oriente province. Her poetry was colored by the warm and radiant land in which she was born.

While growing up she had no contact with any poets or books of the sort, and only her poetic nature made her write in this artistic form.

Her composition "A Cuba", gave her fame through Cuba and was the influence that made her a member of the Sociedad Filarmónica in Santiago de Cuba. In 1856 she published a book of poems called "Poesías de la Señorita Luisa Pérez y Montes de Oca," which gave her instant recognition as a poet in Cuba.

From the University of Habana someone was following her literary accomplishments with interest after reading her book of poems. Doctor Ramón Zambrana wrote to her about his intentions of meeting her and went to Santiago de Cuba to visit her. A mutual friend, Juan Bautista Sagara, introduced them and after a brief courtship they married on September 16, 1858.

They went to live in Habana where Doctor Zambrana had his practice of medicine established, and during their years of marriage they had three daughters and two sons. Luisa continued to write poetry while she raised her family and took care of her husband.

When her husband died, she was left in a poor state of spirits and worse financial state. Her pain was augmented by the loss of her daughters and she took refuge in her sons, but her destiny seemed of adversity without bounds when she lost her sons. During this time of suffering she wrote poems like "Dolor Supremo," "Martirio," and "La Vuelta al Bosque." These poems expressed her agony at the loss of her family but they also expressed her indestructible religious faith which always gave her strength.

Thanks to her many friends she obtained aid from the Cuban government, and was taken care of financially. Friends like Enrique José Varona, Coronado, Sánchez Galarraga y Dulce María Borrero, help her publish a volume of her entire collection of poems.

In the Cuban literature there were two women who contributed with their devotion to beauty through poetry, Luisa Pérez de Zambrana and Gertrudis Gómez de Avellaneda.

GENERAL VICARSHIP AND PARISH CHURCH OF SAN CRISTOBAL DE LA HABANA

The Villa of San Cristóbal de la Habana was founded originally on the south coast of the province, in the year 1515 by order of Capt. Diego Velázquez. The exact location of the town was at the mouth of the river Onicaxinal, but it is not know now which river had that name in the 1500's. Most historians and maps conclude that the river now known as Mayabeque was the river Onicaxinal, which is located near the town of Batabanó.

By the year 1519 the town was located at the north coast, in the beautiful valley that is now the Old Habana, on the west side of the Bay of Habana.

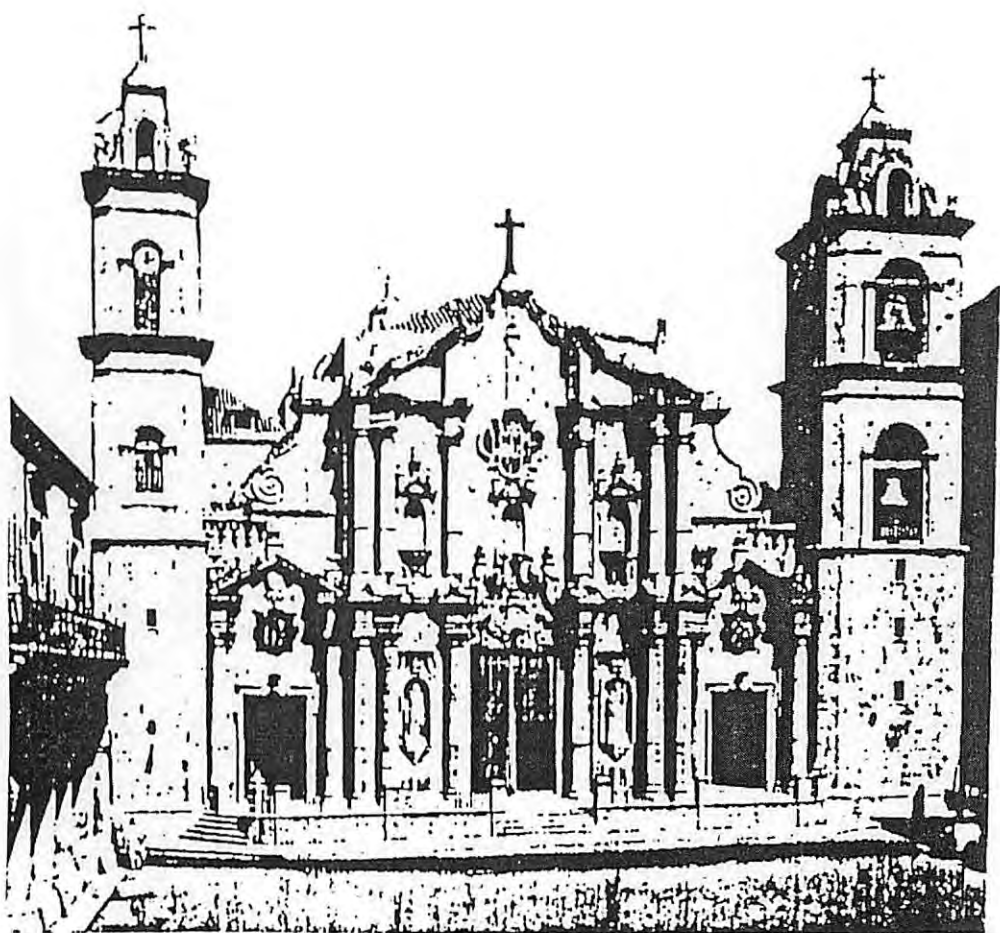

It's name was chosen to be San Cristóbal de la Habana for two purposes: to honor Cristóbal Colón (Christopher Columbus), and because it was founded on July 25th, the day of Saint Christopher, in the Catholic religion. The word Habana was the name the Indians called the region of the province of Habana, and it is found in many documents of that time.

The place of construction of the first parish was surrounded by the fortress Fuerza Vieja, which defended the buildings that made the new city. This first church was made of wood planks and palm tree leaves, and was located in the north west corner of the Plaza de Armas.

The entire city was destroyed by the french pirates in 1538. By 1550 the construction of a new church was underway, this time one block east of the Plaza de Armas. This construction was finished thanks to the generous contribution of D. Juan de Rojas, and was completed in 1571, or soon after that.

In the year 1666, it was added to by the contribution of the Bishop Juan de Santo Matías, and from the contributions of parish members.

CHURCH OF SAN CRISTOBAL DE LA HABANA

This building was admired by many writers for its beauty, but it was not to last forever, since in 1741 it was destroyed by the explosion of the ship Invincible, which was docked at the port. The explosion destroyed many buildings in the city.

After this tragedy the parish priests moved to the Oratorio San Felipe Neri, which became a provisional parish.

At that time the Jesuits were offered a plot of land, called "La Placita de la Ciénaga," that belonged to the Bishop Compostela, to build a chapel. This chapel is now called Nuestra Señora de Loreto, but it was named San Ignacio at the time of its completion.

When this chapel became too small, the Jesuits started the construction of a new chapel, but in 1767, when the Jesuits were expelled from the Spanish territories, they left the chapel unfinished, and no knowledge of its construction was left behind.

In 1772 by Royal order the parish church was approved to be transferred to the half finished building the Jesuits had left behind, and in 1777 the transfer was accomplished. What happened during those five years that took to finish the building, no one knows. We only know that it was finished and by 1787 the parish became the central parish of the Diocese of Habana, and named the Cathedral of Habana.

We do know that at the time that Bishop Espada was in charge, the lateral altars were constructed and adorned with the oil paintings of Vermay which still hang there.

The Diocese of Habana had a jurisdiction that extended from Cabo San Antonio in Pinar del Río to the limits of the parishes of Remedios, Trinidad and Sancti Spiritus, the first in existence to the west of Habana.

The front of the church is still as it was constructed originally, but the interior was remodeled in the years 1947 to 1950, changing most of the aesthetic beauty in the arrangement of the furniture, and damaging the fresco paintings in its walls.

To this Diocese belong the auxiliary parishes of El Espiritu Santo, El Santo Angel Custodio and Santo Cristo del Buen Viaje.
